

Mahavishnu Temple, Thirunelly

April 28, 2023

In news— The Indian National Trust for Art and Cultural Heritage (INTACH) has urged the government to conserve the historically significant structures, including the 600-year-old 'Vilakkumadom', an exquisite granite structure, at the Sree Mahavishnu Temple at Thirunelly in Wayanad district during the on-going renovation of the temple.

About the temple-

- This Mahavishnu temple, also known as "Sahyamala Kshetram" and "Kashi of the South".
- The temple displays the traditional architectural style of Kerala, and the Chera king Kulasekharan is popularly considered to be the builder of this temple.
- It houses a stone aqueduct that ensures uninterrupted water supply to the temple from the forests. Its channels are supported by pillars with interesting murals carved on them.
- It is believed that here the prathishta of Lord Vishnu was performed by Lord Brahma. It is also known as "Sahyamala Kshetram" and "Kashi of the South".
- Thirunelli Temple draws pilgrims from all over, primarily for ancestral rites.
- The rituals are performed on the banks of the stream Papanasini which flows down from Mount Brahmagiri.
- It is believed that this stream has divine power to dissolve sins of all the mortals. Another major attraction of the temple is the holy rock where people pray for their forefathers.
- On the western side of the temple is the cave temple Gunnika, dedicated to Lord Shiva.
- Thus Thirunelli becomes blessed by the unique presence of all the members of the trinity.

Further

reading:

<https://journalsofindia.com/the-indian-national-trust-for-art-and-cultural-heritage/>